Mackay Children to Be Educated by French Governess

Where shall we educate our children? That is a question that bothers some people. China and Japan have been sending members of their royal families to the United States, while many of the wealthy residents of this country are laboring under the impression that England, Germany or France is the only place to properly educate the child. Clarence Mackay of cable fame expects to send his three young children to England to give them the benefit of English schools. At present Miss Katherine, Ellen and John W. are being cared for by special imported French instructors. Many of the wealthy families of New York declare they want their children educated abroad. The schools of this country are supposed to be too crude. In the meantime England has been forced during recent years to send her representatives to this country to glean some of the modern methods for educating the young. The fact that Japan has selected the schools of this country as being the most advanced would indicate that we are not so very far behind in educational matters and the sending of children abroad is more of a fad than a necessity.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."
